Excerpt: . . . she never blooms on the maidens breast; But she comes, as the saintly sisters do, In a modest suit of a Quaker hue. And, when the stars in the evening skies Are weeping dew from their gentle eyes, The toad comes out from his hermit cell, The tale of his faithful love to tell. O there is light in her lovers glance, That flies to her heart like a silver lance; His breeches are made of spotted skin, His jacket is tight, and his pumps are thin; In a cloudless night you may hear his song, As its pensive melody floats along, And, if you will look by the moonlight fair, The trembling form of the toad is there. And he twines his arms round her slender stem, In the shade of her velvet diadem; But she turns away in her maiden shame, And will not breathe on the kindling flame; He sings at her feet through the livelong night, And creeps to his cave at the break of light; And whenever he comes to the air above, His throat is swelling with baffled love. --Oliver Wendell Holmes. DIE HERZ BLUME. THERE grew a little flower once, That blossomed in a day, And some said it would ever bloom, And some twould fade away; And some said it was Happiness, And some said it was Spring, And some said it was Grief and Tears, And many such a thing; But still the little flower...
